Get your flu shot this week on campus! The Cowell Wellness Center is holding flu shot clinics throughout this week at various times and locations around campus. After this week, the Wellness Center will administer flu shots on a walk-in basis from 3 - 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. For more information, see story on page 4.

The San Joaquin Potter’s Guild will hold its 11th annual pottery sale this weekend at Raymond Great Hall on campus. Pottery, sculpture, glass and weaving by local artists will be available on Friday, Nov. 1 from 4:30-9 p.m. and Saturday, Nov. 2 from 9:30 a.m. - 5 p.m. The featured artist will be Trent Burkett, professor of ceramics and sculpture at Pacific.

Mathew Krejci, flute, and Patricia Shands, clarinet, will be playing with the Stamic String Quartet as part of the Resident Artist Series on Nov. 2 at 7:30 p.m. at Faye Spanos Concert Hall. The cost is $6 for adults, $4 for senior citizens and Pacific students are free with a valid student ID.

President Donald DeRosa will present his “State of the University” address on Thursday, Nov. 7, during Pacific Hour, from noon-1 p.m., in the Long Theatre. Mark your calendar now!

University of the Pacific alumnus Neven Hulsey, ’57, has made a $4 million commitment to Pacific’s Eberhardt School of Business it was announced Monday by President Donald DeRosa. The gift will allow for the creation of the Neven C. Hulsey Endowed Chair in Business Excellence as the School celebrates its 25th anniversary.

“I’m pleased that this Chair in Business Excellence will embrace the leadership criteria of honesty, ethics and integrity,” said Hulsey. “It is indeed timely, given the unfavorable leadership examples we’ve seen in the business world recently. Business education at Pacific has advanced greatly over the years, with the assistance of people like Dean Mark Plovnick, becoming stronger today than it has been at any other time.”

Hulsey retired as CEO of EMJ - one of the world’s largest independently-owned distributors of metals - in 1997. EMJ has approximately 2,400 employees and annual sales of more than $1 billion.

“It’s a testament to the value of a Pacific education to have an alumnus of Neven’s distinction make such a confident show of support,” said DeRosa.

During his 35 years in the steel and aluminum industry, Hulsey served on the Board of Directors for the Steel Service Center Institute and the Pacific pledges to be a hero in United Way campaign

“Pledge to be Someone’s Hero,” Pacific’s United Way campaign, launched Oct. 17 with the goal of raising $45,000 and increasing participation to 25 percent.

At the United Way luncheon on Thursday, Oct. 24, hosted by President Donald DeRosa, it was announced that over $5,000 had been raised in the first week of the campaign.

Campaign packets are being distributed by 25 coordinators within each school. A drawing will be held for those returning packets by Nov. 1. The prize is four tickets, with VIP parking, to the Nov. 10 San Francisco 49ers vs Kansas City Chiefs football game.

For more information on Pacific’s United Way campaign, contact Judy Chambers at jchamber@uop.edu.
Dugoni receives kudos from California Orthodontists

The California Association of Orthodontists selected Dr. Arthur A. Dugoni, dean of the University of the Pacific School of Dentistry, as the recipient of the 2002 Distinguished Service Award.

Presented on Oct. 7 at the Monterey DoubleTree Hotel, the award recognizes Dugoni's lifetime contributions to dental education and practice, and his leadership role and advocacy in promoting excellence and progress within the specialty of orthodontics, dental education and the organized profession.

Dugoni has served as dean of Pacific's School of Dentistry since 1978. In 1969, as chair of the department of orthodontics, Dugoni pioneered the school's early treatment orthodontic clinic, which continues to operate under the direction of his son, Dr. Steven Dugoni.

Throughout his career, Dugoni has served as president of the American Dental Association, American Association of Dental Schools and the California Dental Association, and as treasurer of the FDI World Dental Federation. He also served as president of the Pacific Coast Society of Orthodontists and the American Board of Orthodontics.

"I deeply appreciate receiving this award. Dentistry is a wonderful profession and orthodontics is an awesome specialty," said Dugoni. "I've been blessed to have been asked often to serve our profession in so many different capacities over my 54-year career. For me, the ride has been, and continues to be, 'a labor of love.' Confucius said it best: 'Find something you love to do and you never work a day in your life.' And so it has been for me."

noteworthy...

DARCY UMPHRED, professor of Physical Therapy, was presented with the Royce P. Nolan Award of Merit at the California Physical Therapy Association annual meeting. This is a lifetime achievement award for outstanding work in advancing the education, practice and research of physical therapy and Umpred has excelled in all three of these areas.

SUSAN WILLIAMS-QUINLAN, director of the Counseling Center, chaired the planning committee for the 38th annual state conference of the Organization of Counseling Center Directors in Higher Education (OCCDHE), held on Oct. 16-18 in Shell Beach, Calif. The theme of the conference was "Opening Our Doors: Building Inclusive Communities on Campus."

MIKE SHARP, professor of German, presented a paper at the annual German Studies Association meeting in San Diego on Oct. 5. His paper dealt with a recently published autobiographical novel by Martin Walser, a controversial work in which the author reflects on a youth spent in Nazi Germany.

HOWELL RUNION, professor, Thomas J. Long School of Pharmacy and Health Sciences has recently been appointed to the Advisory Board of Somerford Place, a national residential care group for Alzheimer patients. The Stockton unit is a 55-bed residential assisted living facility. Runion also presented a three-hour workshop on Alzheimer's disease, diagnosis, treatment and management concerns to members of the California Association of Marriage and Family Therapists at St. Joseph's Hospital Psychiatric Care Facility.

DAVID WILDER, professor of Psychology, along with psychology undergraduate student CARRIE ELLSWORTH, psychology graduate student HOLLY WHITE, and former Community-Re-Entry Program Clinical Director KEVEN SCHOCK had a manuscript accepted for publication in the journal "Behavioral Interventions." The manuscript described a study that compared three different methods of assessing preference for items and activities in adults with schizophrenia.

MERRIL SCHLEIER, professor of Art History, presented a paper entitled, "The Film Desk Set (1957): Skyscrapers, Gendered Space and the Computer," at the 19th annual conference of the Society of Architectural Historians Australia and New Zealand, in Brisbane, Australia on Oct. 6. Her paper was published in the proceedings for the conference.

W.R. SWAGERTY, Director of the John Muir Center, chaired a session and presented at an international fur trade conference held at Oxford University in April. He also presented public lectures at the Oregon Historical Society, on Jan. 10, and the Washington State Historical Society, on Oct. 10 on "The Indian Trade Blanket of the Northwest: History and Symbolism of a Unique North American Tradition."

JOSEPH LEVY, professor and chair of Physiology/Pharmacology at the School of Dentistry presented two lectures in San Francisco on "Drug Management of Pain" at the September meeting of the San Francisco-San Mateo Podiatry Association, and the October meeting of the Golden Gate Society of Hospital Pharmacists.

LYDIA FOX, professor of Geosciences, participated in the Project Kaleidoscope Faculty for the 21st Century 2002 National Assembly in Washington, D.C., Oct. 11-13. Prior to the conference she testified in support of HR 3130 to the research staff of the House Committee on Science.

National Association of Aluminum Distributors. Hulsey currently serves on the boards of several companies including the International House of Pancakes and Life Style Outfitters.

“Neven has long been a supporter of the Eberhardt School of Business,” said Dean Mark Plovnick. “His vision for Pacific’s role in developing America’s corporate leaders is a great source of pride and encouragement to all of us, and a testimonial to the quality of Pacific’s program. The Hulsey Chair will be a great asset to us in pursuing our mission of preparing business students with strong leadership as well as technical skills”.

Hulsey earned a bachelor of arts degree in business administration, played football and later coached the sport for the University. He also served on Pacific’s Board of Regents from 1991 to 1997 and currently sits on the Eberhardt School of Business Advisory Board.

Hulsey and wife Nancy reside in Horseshoe Bay, Texas and have three children and nine grandchildren.
Flu season is around the corner — be prepared

The flu is far more dangerous than a bad cold. It is a disease that affects the lungs and can lead to pneumonia. Each year over 20,000 people in the United States die because of the flu. More people die from the flu than from any other vaccine-preventable disease. About 114,000 people are hospitalized yearly for flu complications. Those at highest risk for flu related complications include the very young, the elderly and those with chronic medical conditions such as diabetes, heart disease, kidney disease, asthma, cancer and HIV/AIDS.

However, even those who are in good health need a flu shot to keep them healthy and to protect others with whom they live and come in contact. This is especially important on a college campus, where students are in close contact with each other for prolonged periods of time. The flu virus is transmitted through airborne spread and also through direct contact.

The Centers for Disease Control recommends getting the flu shot in October or November, but even getting one in December or later will still protect you against the flu. People who should not get the flu shot are those with high fever, those allergic to eggs, and those who have had a severe reaction to the flu vaccine in the past.

The Cowell Wellness Center staff will be available to give flu shots on campus to Pacific's student body from Oct. 28 through Nov. 1. The cost is $10, which can be charged to a student account. The student health insurance under Mega Life covers the vaccine at 100 percent. After Nov. 1, students, faculty and employees may receive the vaccine at the Wellness Center by appointment (946-2315), while supplies last. If you have any questions or concerns regarding the flu vaccine, please contact the Wellness Center.

California History class to exhibit Stockton's historical institutions

Pacific History Professor Edie Sparks and her students invite the public to view their exhibit “The Way It Was: Stockton’s Historic Institutions 1890s to 1920s,” to be held Saturday, Nov. 2 from 10 a.m. to noon at the Philomathean Club located at 1000 N. Hunter Street in Stockton. These California history students will present findings on the historical significance of buildings and institutions in Stockton, particularly in the Midtown/Magnolia area.

“Stockton is an under-studied city,” said Sparks. “This is the beginning of many years of my California History students working to document the history of the city.”

There are 23 Pacific students working on the project. They were assigned buildings and institutions in Stockton to study, including the Japanese Nippon Hospital, historical black churches, historic homes, a Buddhist temple, the state asylum and small businesses, like Genova Bakery.

Students will present their research findings in the form of poster presentations at the exhibit and be available to answer questions about their projects.

The exhibit is the first in a series of cultural events sponsored by Pacific’s Jacoby Center for Community and Regional Studies in collaboration with the Department of Housing and Urban Development Community Outreach Partnerships Center Programs and the Midtown Magnolia Revitalization Task Force.

The Jacoby Center, established in 2000, was awarded a $400,000 grant from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development to work with the City of Stockton and numerous community groups in the revitalization of the Magnolia historic neighborhood in central Stockton. The Center brings the interdisciplinary resources of Pacific to address community problems and policy options.

Pacific to host Music Business Symposium with distinguished alumni and “Godmother” of rock

Four music industry leaders will be appearing at the next Pacific Music Business Symposium slated for Saturday, Nov. 9 from 10 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. at Pacific’s Conservatory of Music Recital Hall. The morning session will feature renowned music industry mentor, Nadine Condon, presenting her “Common Sense Music Business” seminar. After more than 20 years as one of the premiere marketing gurus and publicists with 14 platinum and gold albums to her credit, she now provides mentoring to a variety of recording artists such as Smashmouth, Melissa Etheridge and Stroke 9. Dubbed the “Godmother of Rock,” Condon was named one of the Top 100 Californians in the music business by BAM Magazine in 1998.

Afternoon proceedings include a panel featuring two distinguished alumni of Pacific’s Music & Entertainment Management program: Gary Miller ’90, vice president of motion picture and TV licensing for Universal Music Group, and John Carmichael ’92, an entertainment attorney specializing in intellectual property and talent representation. Joining them on the panel titled “Artist’s Rights in the Digital Age” will be Brooke Wentz, founder of The Rights Workshop, a rights clearinghouse. Prior to founding The Rights Workshop, Wentz headed up the music department for ESPN networks after a stint as manager of A&R administration for Arista Records.

Following the panel, students will have the opportunity to connect with speakers and other industry professionals for one-on-one mentoring sessions to discuss various entertainment career options and industry trends.

The event is being sponsored by Pacific’s Conservatory of Music, Eberhardt School of Business, Career Resource Center and ASUOP. The student-led Pacific Music Management Club is handling production. Admission is free to Pacific students, faculty, staff and interested alumni. A networking luncheon will be hosted in the Regent’s Dining Room as part of the symposium.

A schedule of the day’s events will be posted on the Conservatory of Music’s Web site (www.uop.edu/conservatory/calspecial.html). For more information, contact Professor Keith Hatschek, (209) 946-2443 or via email at khatschek@uop.edu.
