No Gawkers, Just Talkers

While Hollywood actors were preparing their Oscar acceptance speeches, those with something really to say were here in Stockton as Pacific hosted the Northern California Forensics Association Championship Tournament. More than 280 students from 31 colleges and universities attended the event, competing in two different formats of team debate as well as 11 different individual events in novice, junior, and open divisions.

The big news for the Pacific Speech & Debate Society is the performance of Jacki Evans (’06, Pol. Sci) and Cynthia Parrish (’05, Business Law), who earned a perfect 6-0 prelim record in Open Division Parliamentary Debate before progressing through quarterfinals, semifinals, and finals to win the tournament.

Pacific golfer and Communication major, Miles Kirkpatrick, also made a good showing in his first tournament. Miles and his partner, Brian Foster of Foothill College, earned 12th seed (out of 37) in the Novice Division. They dropped out in Octafinals, but still came away with 3rd (Foster) and 9th (Kirkpatrick) best speaker ratings in the event, out of 74.

In individual events, Natalie Lewis (’06, Speech Path) was a finalist in Prose and 4th place in Dramatic Duo (w/ Kristin Pace, ’07, Comm).

Congratulations!
Japanese heritage honored with gift to Pacific

In 1885 Sanji Muto, a Japanese businessman attended University of the Pacific in San Jose to study English. Nearly 120 years later, Union Bank of California is honoring this successful businessman and grandfather of one of its board members with a gift to re-establish Muto’s legacy.

On February 12, 2004, Bank President and Chief Executive Officer Norimichi Kanari, along with other Bank executives presented a check to President DeRosa for the establishment of a permanent endowment for the purchase of books on Japanese-American relations. Sanji Muto gave a gift to Pacific in 1919 to establish such a fund, and several such book purchases were made until 1938. However, Muto was assassinated in 1933 for his vocal opposition to Japan’s growing militarization, and coupled with the Great Depression and World War II, the purchases likely stopped.

Muto’s life story is a fascinating one, and a chapter of Harold S. Jacoby’s book, Pacific: Yesterday and the Day Before That published in 1989 is dedicated to the investigation into the “mysterious Muto Fund” that uncovered his political assassination in Tokyo and a gift that went to the wrong San Jose college.

Like his grandfather, Kenji Yoshizawa has built a successful career as a businessman. A graduate of Georgetown University, Yoshizawa is Advisor to the President and Director of The Bank of Tokyo-Mitsubishi, Ltd., Japan’s premier bank. BTM is a majority stockholder in Union Bank. Also following in his grandfather’s footsteps, Yoshizawa plans on making the trip to Pacific. This time, the journey will lead to Stockton and Muto’s grandson will be here not to learn English, but to learn all that he can about his ancestor’s time at the University.

“Women Taking Charge”

Pacific's Division of Student Life, together with Sport Sciences Event Management, is proud to present the 3rd annual Women's Leadership Conference, “Women Taking Charge,” Moving Beyond the Numbers, to be held Mar. 27 from 8:30 am to 2:00 pm at Pacific’s McCaffrey Center Theatre.

“Women Taking Charge” promotes student women leadership by providing a variety of presentations and discussions on topics such as Title IX in Today’s World, Women in Politics, Women’s Safety, and Metaphysical Leadership. This year’s keynote speakers include Kristen Sprague, Olympic Gold Medal Winner, and Ann Johnston, former city councilperson and Stockton mayoral candidate.

Past conferences have received high praise from attendees. Bernie Kramer, executive assistant in Student Life, participated in last year's conference. “I love it,” she says. According to Kramer, the conference is both informative and also serves as a catalyst for interaction between women from all age brackets and walks of life. “The best part of the conference is sharing ideas and learning new things from women of all ages.”

Dr. Julie Sina, Vice President of Student Life, has been credited as the driving force behind Pacific's Women's Leadership Conferences. Although she personally leaves most of the details up to the students and faculty in charge of organizing the events, Dr. Sina promotes the conferences as effective tools which aid women to reach their potential. Said Dr. Sina, “It’s about empowering student women leadership, both on campus and in life beyond.”

The Conference is free to all interested participants, but space is limited. Reserve your spot now by contacting the Office of the Division of Student Life at x6-2365.

University Staff Advisory Council Elections

The University of the Pacific Staff Advisory Council (SAC) is in the process of sending out nomination forms to University staff for the 2004 election of SAC representatives. The primary responsibility of the Staff Advisory Council (SAC) is to encourage participation by staff, in an advisory role, in University matters. SAC functions include, but are not limited to:

- Staff concerns and issues
- Compensation and benefits
- Safety and welfare of staff
- Staff development opportunities
- Developing mechanisms for effective communication between staff and administration and other campus groups
- Requesting nominations for the administration for staff representation to University committees
- Requesting input from staff in order to formulate and present recommendations and advice to the administration on matters relating to the University

All SAC members are elected to a two-year term. Membership is open to non-faculty, non-coaching, non-union staff employed by the University of the Pacific at least 9 months a year and 20 hours a week in Salary Range 1-11. Representatives are elected in their respective voting area by staff (grades 1-11). The SAC will be seeking to fill the following vacant positions:

What are the responsibilities of a typical SAC member?

An SAC Representative is required to attend all regularly scheduled meetings as well as any special meetings that may be called. Typically SAC meets the first Friday of every month from 12-2 p.m., except during the months of July and January. The President has declared that all SAC representatives are provided release time for SAC activities. As a representative you are assigned constituents (other staff members) to represent by informing them of SAC meetings and activities and presenting their concerns to the Council upon request.

If you have any questions, please contact Peggy Kay (pkay@pacific.edu) or ext. 67358.
