WIND BLOWS STAFF INSIDE FOR ANNUAL LUNCHEON

Thursday, May 22 turned out to be one of the windiest days in Stockton to date, beginning with a 20-foot-tall stained glass window falling from the west side of Burns Tower. Thankfully no one was injured, but it was clear that the Years of Service Luncheon would have to be moved inside from Knoles Lawn. Thanks to quick work on the part of Bon Appetit, Human Resources and Support Services staff, the event was quickly relocated to Grace Covell Dining Hall. Pacific staff members enjoyed close company and a delicious luncheon at the event to celebrate years of service and honor recipients of the Cavanaugh Distinguished Service Award.

This award, previously known as the Most Valuable Pacifican Award, is given annually to one exempt and one non-exempt staff member on the Stockton Campus. Recipients receive an award of $500 and an ‘A’ parking permit. A generous donation by Vice President for Business and Finance Pat Cavanaugh and his wife Janita established an endowment to fund these awards in perpetuity as the Cavanaugh Distinguished Service Award. The endowment also included an award to be given to one non-exempt staff member at Arthur A. Dugoni School of Dentistry and one at Pacific McGeorge School of Law. The first awards for San Francisco and Sacramento staff will be given later this fall.

Seventy-five staff members celebrated anniversaries from five to 35 years. “Old timers” this year were Dede Sanchez of the Office of the Registrar and Ron Young from OIT, both celebrating 35 years of service at Pacific. Winners of the Cavanaugh Distinguished Service Award were nominated by the University community for their extraordinary service, significant contribution to the University’s mission, and commitment to teamwork. This year’s recipients were Ginger Hudson from the biology department in College of the Pacific and Alicia Canning-Mordhorst from Advancement Services. Congratulations and thanks to all honorees for their service and dedication to Pacific.

ARThUR A. DUGONI AWARDED
ELLIS ISLAND MEDAL OF HONOR

The National Ethnic Coalition of Organizations (NECO) Foundation honored Dr. Arthur A. Dugoni, dean emeritus of Arthur A. Dugoni School of Dentistry, with the Ellis Island Medal of Honor during a special ceremony held on Ellis Island in May. NECO presents the awards annually to distinguished American citizens of diverse origins for their outstanding contributions to their communities, their nation and the world. Past Ellis Island Medal of Honor recipients include six Presidents of the United States, Nobel Prize winners, athletes, leaders of industry, artists and others whose work has made a lasting impact on humanity.

“Receiving the Ellis Island Medal of Honor was an awesome, overwhelming experience,” said Dugoni. “I was emotionally touched by the realization that my grandparents and parents came through Ellis Island and came to this country to find a better place for themselves, their children and future generations. I am truly honored and deeply humbled to have received this award.”

Although Dugoni concluded his deanship at the Arthur A. Dugoni School of Dentistry in 2006, he continues to be involved with the school and the University as dean emeritus, professor of orthodontics and senior executive for development. He is currently president of the American Dental Association Foundation, the philanthropic branch of the ADA, and has served as president of the ADA, the American Association of Dental Schools, the American Board of Orthodontics and the California Dental Association.

COMPUTER THEFT
IN SOUTH CAROLINA EXPOSES PERSONAL INFORMATION OF THOUSANDS

The theft of a desktop computer over Memorial Day weekend at the University of South Carolina compromised the personal information of about 7,000 students and 130 faculty members. The computer contained information from students who had taken business courses at the school, including Social Security numbers.

Incidents like this point out how important it is to maintain security of personal information. Desktop PCs and laptops, while convenient, do not offer the same protections to information that secure network storage provides. All confidential and restricted access information should be moved off of PCs and laptops to network and department shares. The University relies upon each campus, department and individual system administrator to preserve and protect confidential and restricted access information in an appropriate, consistent and reliable manner. Users must not store non-university personal identification numbers, which includes Social Security numbers, credit card numbers or driver’s license numbers on unsecured devices or media for any period of time.

Staff and faculty members are encouraged to review relevant IT security policies and procedures frequently as well as personal and departmental practices to be sure appropriate security is maintained. If you are unsure whether your computer contains confidential information, Pacific has a tool to help identify where this information may exist. Please contact your TSP or the Customer Support Center at 209.946.7400 for more information on the Identity Finder software. Questions or concerns relating to IT security should be directed to Rod Cook, the University’s IT security officer at ITsecurity@pacific.edu. IT policies can be accessed online at pacific.edu/oit/officeofcio/docs/ITPolicies.pdf.
