Two Pacific students were robbed at gunpoint after 7 p.m. Friday near Cocoro Japanese Bistro and Sushi Restaurant on the Miracle Mile. According to Stockton Police, both students – a male and a female - had left the restaurant and were walking to their separate cars when the male student was approached by two subjects armed with a rifle and a handgun. They took his wallet and cell phone. The female student saw the robbery in progress after she had entered her car and honked her horn to frighten the suspect, but the suspects approached her car instead. Both students fled the scene and the suspects fired their weapons, striking the female student’s car. Both students were unharmed but the suspects escaped.
