SCHOOL OF
International Studies
GRADUATION OUTCOMES: CLASSES OF 2013-2017

Sample Employers
US Department of State
LinkedIn
GitHub
Lockheed Martin
Uber
AmeriCorps-VISTA
California Almond Board
World Affairs Council
PepsiCo-Frito Lay
Council on Int’l Education Exchange
UC Davis

Sample Graduate/Professional School
Middlebury Institute of Int’l Studies
The George Washington University
USC-Keck School of Medicine
Hastings College of Law
Hastings College of Law
UC San Diego
UC Santa Barbara
UC Los Angeles
Univ. of the Pacific
UNC-Chapel Hill
Univ. of Texas-Austin
CSU-Stanislaus

Academic Internships
U.S. Commercial Service
Cal Chamber of Commerce-Int’l Division
CalAsian Chamber of Commerce
Federal Bureau of Investigation
Nathan Associates
Uganda Bureau of Statistics
Port of Stockton
MALDEF
Riskline

Sample Position Titles
Foreign Service Officer
Financial Analyst
Attorney-at-Law
Climate Policy & Carbon Market Dir.
Study Abroad Enrollment Officer
Market Development Strategist
Teacher
Legal Assistant
Global Mobility Specialist

What Employers Say
“University of the Pacific’s School of International Studies has been a great partner with California Asian Pacific Chamber of Commerce by providing valuable young professionals. We continue to look forward to working with UOP’s Career Resource Center to foster student’s work experience.”

Amandip Kaur
CalAsian Pacific Chamber
MBDA Export Center

“County Counsel’s office needed an energetic, professional, smart intern who was ready to learn and ready to work. Pacific’s Intern Program worked with us to describe the position and within a few weeks we quality candidates to interview. The intern we chose for our project has been responsible, professional, and an absolute powerhouse on moving the project forward!”

Zoe P. Merrill
San Joaquin County Counsel

88% of reporting SIS graduates are either employed or in graduate school.
27% of SIS graduates began their careers in not-for-profit enterprises or government agencies.
40% of COP graduates are working in the for-profit/corporate sector.*

Percentages are based on surveys conducted by the School of International Studies. For the classes of 2013-2017, final response rate was 79%.
*Percentage based on surveys conducted for the class of 2016 and 2017 six months out after graduation by the Career Resource Center and Institutional Research Office.

Career Resource Center Services
• Tiger Jobs (job database)
• Career Advising
• Career Change Assistance
• Interview Assistance
• Career Events & Info Sessions
• Resume & Cover Letter Review
• Career Closet
• Job Search Advice
• Grad School Planning
• Networking
• Academic Career Courses
• Interest Assessment

Guiding SIS students as they transform from curious first-years to thoughtful and analytical adults at graduation is inspirational. Their ability to communicate, and to draw on history, economic thought, political reasoning, and a deep understanding of how culture shapes contemporary world issues is superb as they move into their careers, whether in government, business, or the non-profit sector. They have different backgrounds and beliefs, but I always trust that their perspectives will make mine richer.

Susan Sample
SIS Professor of Political Science

My SIS education prepared me really well for a career in finance. SIS taught me to be comfortable in any competitive, multicultural environment, as well as versatile and fearless in pursuing an international career. Today, living in Dubai, I am the Regional Business Development Director for the Middle East for the STM Group, where I work throughout the Arabian Gulf region and India. SIS definitely helped me stand out in a field full of MBAs.

Amy Curlee
B.A. in International Relations, Class of 2006