Ballroom; DeRosa University Center

Annie Leonard will be speaking on The Story of Stuff and The Story of Broke. Leonard is a steward for sustainability and consumer impact on the earth. Leonard is the keynote speaker for Sustainability month which runs through April.

Americans like to purchase stuff. When the latest version of a product comes out, they rush to the store to buy them. What happens to the old gadgets and goodies? They get thrown away.

Leonard is a steward for sustainability efforts and for limiting society’s consumption of material goods. Leonard serves on various boards and groups that take a role in creating a more environmentally friendly society. Leonard, a sustainability expert who created the viral video “The Story of Stuff,” will challenge Pacificans to rethink their consumption habits and the need to change to sustain the environment. Leonard will speak at University of the Pacific at 7 p.m. April 20 in the Don and Karen DeRosa University Center Ballroom. The presentation is free and open to the public.
